Ornamental Lights Sought For Bacon Street Link

MODERN ILLUMINATION PROVES DESIRABLE FACTOR IN BEACH GROWTH

Signatures of property owners are being secured for an ornamental lighting system on Bacon street from Newport avenue to Voltaire street, following the route of the electric railway. Advocates of the proposed improvement stress the fact that Voltaire street forms a part of the coast highway and that the lighting of the Bacon street link to the present business center will be decidedly beneficial to the growth of both sections. It is stated that the ornamental lighting of Voltaire street has already reached the stage of installation at an early date. Now let's strive for more arc lights throughout the residential districts. Don't watch Ocean Beach grow—grow with it!

PLANS APPROVED FOR IMPROVEMENTS TOWARD RECREATIONAL RESORT

The board of county supervisors adopted a resolution this week approving plans of the Southlands Corporation for the reclaiming of 250 acres of marsh lands near the Bayside Country club and opposite the marine base. A bill is before the state legislature amending the state reclamation law to make possible the local improvement, and the supervisors went on record as recommending and endorsing that bill.

The reclamation laws do not provide for work of this kind within limits of incorporated cities, and the proposed amendment will make it possible for the Southlands organization to do the work under the state law and issue bonds for payment. A tract of 230 acres, now submerged by high tides, is to be filled in, and a golf course is planned for this area. Approximately 93 per cent of the property in the proposed reclamation district is owned by the Southlands corporation.

F. C. KROEPEL OPENS MODERN MEAT MARKET ON VOLTAIRE STREET

In the commodious, well lighted and sanitary store at 4883 Voltaire street, next door to Heller's at Cable street, Mr. Fred C. Kroepel has opened a modern meat market under most favorable conditions. Besides carrying a choice supply of fresh meats, poultry and fish, a specialty is made of home-cooked foods furnished daily and is varied to include beef loaf, veal loaf, sausages of all kinds and luncheon delicacies. Mr. Kroepel is an experienced butcher and dealer in delicatessen and patrons are assured of prompt and courteous service. He respectfully requests a trial and guarantees satisfaction on the cash and carry system of business, with popular prices prevailing at all times.

CANDIDATE IREY BELIEVES IN NEW CHARTER AND CLEAN CITY

Ira S. Irely, who was the people's choice for third place in the primary election for city council, long term, wishes to reiterate that if elected he will go into office absolutely unpledged to any single individual, corporation, or group; that he stands for the up-building of San Diego and pledges himself, with that purpose in mind, to the carrying forward of a clean and efficient government. He asserts that San Diego needs a new charter and a consolidation of tax collector's and assessor's offices of the city and county, and the desires to secure for San Diego all of these things that will be best for all the people.

ORATORY CONTEST THOUSANDS STUDYING OUR COUNTRY'S CONSTITUTION FOR NATIONAL EVENT

Director Alan Nichols states that responses to the call to high school students in the Pacific Southwest zone, comprising California, Utah, Nevada, and Arizona to participate in the Fourth National Oratorical Contest have come from more than 150,000 pupils during the past two months, according to interesting statistics just compiled concerning the contest. One representative is sent from the seven districts of the country to Washington to compete for the national championship. In the four states comprising this zone, California is far advanced, the following four districts boasting 100 per cent in participation: Imperial county, No. 9; city of Fresno, No. 4; city of San Diego, No. 2, and Ventura county, No. 29.

Getting nearer home, it is gratifying to record that students at the Point Loma high school and students at the Army and Navy Academy in Pacific Beach are making active preparations toward competing for the two silver cups to be awarded by "The Beach News" to the winner in the contests at the respective educational institutions. The handsome trophies will be placed on exhibition within a week or so.

WANT TO KNOW THE CORRECT TIME?

Just phone Main 0124 and the exact hour of the day to a second will be given to you by the San Diego chamber of commerce. This is an innovation started this week for the benefit of the public.

STRAND THEATRE

"The Peach of the Devil" featuring Pat O'Malley and Mae Busch, on the Saturday night program is a gold mining story of two women and a man. The plot is: was he unfair, was he disloyal, or was he just deceived? When sudden wealth fell to him, he deserted the woman who had struggled with him in his poverty. How can you protect yourself against a similar fate? A lesson in keeping a husband every woman should see. The scenic will be "The Iron Trail Around the World." The comedy "Over Thereabouts" and the News Weekly.

Sunday and Monday, "New York," with Ricardo Cortez, Lois Wilson and Estelle Taylor. The story of a Bowery jazz musician who falls in love with a society belle and has to fight against tremendous odds to win her. A love drama that runs its thrilling course through Bowery dives, Broadway night clubs, Fifth Avenue mansions, Tin Pan Alley and Greenwich Village studios. The throbbing heart of the titan city laid bare. A comedy and fables complete the bill.

Tuesday and Wednesday Colleen Moore in "Orchids and Ermine". Walking home from an automobile ride, and what to do when this is made necessary, is explained in a novel fashion by Colleen Moore. When he said it with flowers he said an awful to this little $20 a week phone girl in a $40 a day hotel. She wanted to step out with a millionaire but was afraid she'd have to walk back. The News Weekly and "Backward George" comedy on the same program.

Thursday and Friday John Gilbert and Eleanor Boardman in "Bardelys the Magnificent." Romance, Adventure, Thrills and heart throbs, in this elaborate film. The third chapter of Silver Streak in "The Silent Flyer" and a comedy.

AMENDMENTS 2 & 5 CITY CLERK WRIGHT SUGGESTS SENSIBLE CHANGES IN ELECTION LAWS

San Diego, March 29, 1927.
Editor "The Beach News":

Knowing that your paper reaches many voters in its field, I am taking the liberty to request space in which to urge support of two amendments to the city charter which I asked the common council to submit at the coming election. They are Nos. 2 and 5 on the ballot.

No. 2 will extend the time between primary and general elections to three weeks, instead of but two as is now the provision, and will also require that all petitions of candidates to go on the primary ballot shall be filed not less than twenty-one days before the primary. I asked that these be submitted because I believe there is a very vital need in this extension of time in the two instances.

The extended time asked for will serve to eliminate the present possibility of some technical error in the election proceedings and will not harm anyone, and, personally, I can see no valid objection to the adoption of Amendment 2.

As to No. 5 a word of explanation will probably be all that is required by the average voter. The present charter provision as to maximum payment to be made for official advertising was fixed more than a quarter of a century ago, when wages paid to printers and others about newspaper plants were but a fraction of the scale today, and the cost of production to the newspaper publisher was correspondingly smaller.

For a number of years recently there has been a doubt as to the city obtaining a bid to do the official advertising on the present charter scale, and hence this amendment is offered based upon the scale now allowed the county and upon a fair rate of return to the contracting newspaper. Very truly yours,

ALLEN H. WRIGHT, City Clerk.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the M. B. Chamber of Commerce was held in the Casino on Monday night, President Claud L. Chambers in the chair. A committee was appointed to make new by-laws for the organization, with John M. Coker as chairman. The dues were raised from $1.00 for man and wife to $1.00 per member, which will enhance the treasury considerably and it is earnestly urged that all members pay up promptly their dues for 1927.

A number of pointed questions were asked Mr. Fred Heilbron, (who was in attendance) as our council man, upon the sewer, the lights and the paving, and he answered them to the best of his ability, and stated that he would fight the raising of assessments on beach lots, as he was also an owner here.

An appealing talk was made by Mrs. Miller, superintendent of the Mission Union Sunday School, for a Community House to be built at the beach, and from the enthusiasm of the members displayed, the House will be built in the near future. "A much needed necessity."

Mr. Wallace Walters addressed the Chamber on the Federation, and stated that it sponsored civic movements and was a help to the farmer. The Mission Beach Chamber joined, and appointed Mrs. William S. Hunt chairman of the delegation; Mrs. Daniel Thede, and Mr. Fred Jennings were also appointed delegates.

A fine program was rendered by Mr. J. D. Pritchard and his co-workers. A little skit called "Good Business," written by himself, was much appreciated. A composition and Spanish Dance by Miss Lola Hotson, an interpretive song by Miss Gait-skill, with Miss Fiedke as accompanist completed a most enjoyable program.

The Pastime Library under the superintendency of Mrs. Walter Skelley, are constantly adding new books, among which are, "Magic Garden," by Gene Stratton-Porter, and "A Free Soul" by Adella Rogers St. John.

Mrs. C. E. Elliott was the week end guest of her grandson and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Arnold on Ocean Front.

McReynolds, whose office is located in the Transportation Building, Seventh and Los Angeles streets, Los Angeles.

Collector Welch states that the new law referred to above covers transactions affecting the handling of all kinds of wines, liquors and alcohol.

LAW ENACTED BY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS WILL PROTECT THE PUBLIC

Dedication of a roadway along the ocean front and the intervening beach to mean high tide for the use of the people as a public park was embodied in an ordinance passed this week by the county board of supervisors. The law affects all future seashore subdivisions in the county of San Diego with the exception of the Silver Strand near Coronado and to cover such conditions the ordinance provides that where the distance is less than 440 yards from the ordinary high tide line of an inlet or an estuary to the ordinary high tide line of the ocean, that at intervals of not more than 600 feet, only roadways or streets to be not less than sixty feet wide, need be dedicated to the public.

The ordinance was prepared by a special committee appointed by the board of supervisors, composed of the following: Tam Deering, secretary of the Community Service; Forrest Cobb, in behalf of the Spreckels interests, and E. S. Lovett of the district attorney's office. Beach property already privately owned is not included in the new ordinance.

STEPS SUGGESTED IN SAVING SHORE SPACE FOR THE PUBLIC

It was officially pointed out this week that the tidelands around Mission bay are under control of the state harbor commission and that the city has no control over them although all of the borderlands of the bay are in the city limits. It was also suggested that the city attorney take the necessary steps to get the state legislature to put these tidelands under the city before they fall into the hands of subdividers and the public cut off from the use of them.

CANDIDATE DOWELL VOICES HIS CIVIC VIEWS AND THANKS VOTERS

Edward H. Dowell, candidate for city councilman, speaking before a group of interested citizens in Ocean Beach recently said, "Now that our fight to save the beaches, for the people of the county, has been won I can give little time to my campaign for election. First, I want to thank the voters for the wonderful vote of confidence they gave me at the primary election. You ask me what I think can be accomplished for the people of San Diego.

"If elected my first thought will, of course, be given to the development of water. I believe the incoming council should also lend every effort toward solving the drainage problem in the city. Attention to our rapid growth should prevent repeating the mistake of laying sewers that are inadequate before the installation is paid for. I believe the people of San Diego are sick of paying for one year paving and two years sewers.

"Above all, I believe the city council should see to it that all the labor employed on city work is performed by citizens of San Diego and all materials purchased from San Diego merchants and dealers.

If elected my only interest will be to render real service to all parts of the city and to all its citizens regardless of whom they may be."

The highest percentage was used as a basis for awarding the cups.

An exploitation in new lines of agriculture has been tried at Perris this year with a fair measure of success. The Pennsylvania Macaroni company of Pittsburgh, a wholesale concern, this season leased the 200-acre ranch at Perris Valley known as the Mountain Valley Rancho upon which to raise lettuce. The land was planted and favorable weather conditions brought the lettuce to early maturity. About twelve cars of choice quality stuff were shipped to New York and other eastern markets where it brought a fancy price. Then Imperial Valley and other sections began pouring their lettuce on the market at a price that would not justify harvesting. The crop was held back for a better price that did not come.

The old frame building at Napa, in Main street, near Third, built nearly sixty years ago, and long a landmark in that part of the city, is being razed to make room for a new fire-proof store building, to be erected by the owner of the property. In its early years the old building housed a cannery and barber shop. The tearing down disclosed that the building was without studding, and that its roof was supported only by upright boards which formed the sides; a typical construction of pioneer days.

Californians will soon have an opportunity to see what the first state capitol building looked like. Grand opera, jazz and lectures over the radio are delivered to the cows and hired men of John Gallazzi, Modesto dairyman, while the "bossies" are being milked every evening. So thoroughly does Gallazzi believe in radio that he has "radioized" his dairy. A plug-in has been established in his barn and when it comes milking time the radio is turned on. He maintains that the music makes the cows give their milk down freely and keeps his men in good humor.

Secrets of a French Chef

From a village in France, where I was born, I brought some years ago to this country a secret. My great-grandfather, grandfather and my father were all eminent and famous pastry chefs in France, known the country over, famous because of their delicate, appetizing and delicious pastries, cakes and desserts. They catered for most of the celebrated affairs given.

The secret that I brought over with me was a formula of a delightful Marshmallow in Creme form. # WHAT TO SEE IN JAVA Javanese Women on the Way to Market.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

JAVA, lying far off in the eastern seas, almost a world apart from Europe and America, has emphasized the twentieth century's quickening of communications and the easy flow of ideas by recently having its Bolshevik troubles. These seem, however, to have been pretty well suppressed.

The very recent emergence of the Javanese from serfdom no doubt increases the desire for greater freedom among the small group of the educated; but the close association of the vast mass of the uneducated with the soil—a virtual peonage—is a powerful force toward conservatism.

Java is a favored isle in many ways its entire area, equal to that of New York state, lies within nine degrees of the equator. Java is the richest of the Dutch East Indies and also the most densely populated; the number of inhabitants amounts to as many as 1,000 per square mile in some districts. Aside from the sprinkling of Europeans and Chinese, the native population numbers more than 30,000,000. These all belong to the Malay race and almost without exception profess the religion of Islam.

Batavia, on the low-lying north coast, is the capital of Java as well as its metropolis and the great emporium for trade among the islands and between them and the mother country, The Netherlands. It is a great, sprawling town with numerous warehouses to take the place of the "factories" of the early days of Dutch activity in the East. There are canals, too, in true Dutch fashion, in the old town. Few Europeans live there now. It is given over almost wholly to trade, and serves as well as a residence section for Javanese, Chinese, Indians, Arabs and Malays. Farther inland on higher ground lie the quarters of Europeans, chiefly Dutch, of course. This white man's section has broad avenues and low houses ennobled in trees and shrubbery.

There are parks, green and colorful with the luxuriant growths of the tropics. Near one of these is an imposing building of classical design, the Museum of the Batavian Society of Arts and Sciences. The copper elephant on a pedestal in front of the building was a gift from the king of Siam, presented on the occasion of his visit some years ago. This museum contains the finest ethnological collection of any institution in the Far East.

Good Hotels for Tropics.

The rising sun warns the traveler of the approach of noon and he turns down a side street in search of the welcome coolness of a hotel. As a rule the hotels in Java are clean, well kept and admirably designed to meet the requirements of a tropical climate. They usually consist of a main building, openly constructed, so as to admit the passing breeze, with wings containing the sleeping rooms. The charges in Java are much cheaper than in other parts of the East. The Java-hotels furnish a great treat to gourmets—that famous gastronomic institution known as the rijst-tafel or rice-table.

One takes his seat in a spacious pavilion and is brought soup by an army of beturbaned Malays. Then large, deep plates are brought, on each a supply of rice. On top of this basic stratum two inches deep the diner is expected to place an extraordinary variety of vegetables, curries, dried fish, eggs, fowls and meat flavored with a variety of peppery condiments.

A sail of 36 fathoms from Batavia brings one to Soerabaya, the most important seaport in Java, with a good harbor at the mouth of the Solo river. Ships anchor offshore and passengers embark in one of the native boats and make their ways amid the crowded shipping to the landing stage.

Although commercially of great importance, Soerabaya is hot and presents few attractions to the visitor. There is an air of bustling activity in the streets which seems to verify the city's reputation for alertness and ascendancy in the mechanical arts.

A two hours' ride by rail from Soerabaya through a densely tropical region lands the traveler at Pasonrouan. There he may get the real flavor of back-country travel by entering the curious carts of the country called dos-a-dos, and set out for the delightful mountain resort of Tosari, Java's Simla. Ever ascending, the road leads past miles of rice and sugar fields to a pretty little hotel on the lower slopes of the mountain range, where one may rest. The remainder of the climb to Tosari is too steep for vehicles, so horses and palanquins are used for the final stage of the journey.

Tosari is a delightful resort. A sojourn of several days in the salubrious air of the mountains renews one for life or travel in the plains. A walk along the single street of the village gives some idea of the mode of life of these mountaineers, who are quite distinct from their neighbors of the lower valleys. Here are found the homes of the Tenggere, that hardy tribe who, at the time of the Moslem invasion, retreated to these mountain strongholds and successfully defended their homes against the invaders.

The lofty location of Tosari, perched on a flank of the Tengger massif at an elevation of 5,480 feet above sea level, invites one, by its invigorating air, to undertake walking trips and mountaineering excursions, which in other parts of the island would be out of the question.

Lots of Volcanoes.

Two of these jaunts which are most interesting are the trips to the crater of the active volcano and to the summit of Penandjaan, a loftier eminence which commands an extensive view of the eastern part of the island.

Volcanoes and Java are subjects that cannot be divorced. Volcanoes made in the first place, and constantly being remade by them, Java has more volcanoes than any area of its size in the world. Estimates of the active and extinct craters range from 100 to 150. Everywhere in Java, in the huge crater lakes, in fissures that now are river beds, even in ancient temples, half finished when interrupted by some fiery convulsion, are evidences of cataclysmic forces.

The "treacherous Klot," as the natives call it, all but wiped out the town of Britar in 1919, but even its devastation was mild compared to the violent upheaval of Krakatoa in 1883. Then Mother Nature turned anarchist and planted a gargantuan infernal machine on the doorstep of Java. Krakatoa is a little island in the Sunda strait, between Sumatra and Java.

One of the most fascinating spots in all Java cities is the market. The Dutch have roofed most of them over, and under the tile shelters the natives display baskets of rice, bunches of bananas and leaves bearing preparations of betel, peppers and ground coconut. In every Javan town the market, or pasar, is a center of interest.

If your purchase is small enough to warrant wrapping you get a neat package, enclosed in banana leaf, which has been called the "wrapping paper of the tropics," fastened with a caustic thorn.

Java is extremely fertile—made so by its numerous volcanoes, those much-maligned beneficent forces. The entire island is the most luxuriant garden spot in all the world. It is so densely populated that its inhabitants must till the soil, and cannot pluck their food from trees as in some South Sea Isles. But they do live by a minimum of labor and they require for shelter only a roof over their heads to protect them from frequent rains. The result of these conditions has been that the present-day Javan has had slight need to concern himself with architecture, making machines, or household decorations.

Though the modern Javan is not concerned with architecture the island people of thousands of years ago built temples and monuments which today are objects of wonder to the student and fragments of beauty to the artist. Notable among these is the Great Buddha, or Boro Boeder, a mighty terraced temple containing a massive image of Buddha and a remarkable series of bas-reliefs.

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

Copper in Small Coins

More than two million pounds of copper were required by the United States Treasury department in 1925 to mint $5,115,675 in pennies and nickels, the Dearborn Independent comments. The "nickel" contains 75 per cent copper.

One who commits crime may be cleared, but one who is gossiped about seldom is.

TIDELAND LEASES

FOR INDUSTRIAL PURPOSES

STRONGLY ADVOCATED

Accepting the chairmanship of the committee working for the leasing of tidelands between Market and Eighth streets to industries related to ships and shipping, Hal Hotchkiss, former president of San Diego Realty board and member of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce points out that the leases which will be voted on at the election next Tuesday are in the industrial area south of Market street, as set out in the Nolen plan. Various industries, including machine shops, boat builders and lumber yards will be established there, he said.

"Contrary to general belief, Hotchkiss said, 'the tidelands are in a raw state consisting largely of sand unevenly piled just as it was dredged from the bottom of the bay. This is too soft to be used without surfacing with several feet of gravel or truck pavement. The city will not spend a cent to improve these areas to be leased. Each leaseholder must provide his own surfacing.'"

"It is important to remember that no leaseholder will be granted a lease up to the cement bulkhead or sea wall since a street 125 feet wide will be reserved the entire length of the front for the use of all citizens."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

THE LITTLE THINGS

THERE is reluctance among many of us to accept at face value the intrinsic worth of little things, which in some way or another have an intimate bearing on our happiness.

If we will stop for a moment in the bustle of our frenzied existence, when our brains are cool and in condition to receive impressions and retain them, we will perceive how trifles often affect our attitude toward our fellow beings.

A sharply spoken word, suddenly flaring up between life-long friends has been known to foment an enmity that endured till death.

A little thing, to be sure, but tremendous in result.

A falling apple led Sir Isaac Newton to the discovery of the law of gravitation.

A caress and kiss from his adoring mother made Benjamin West a great painter.

Lincoln's famous speech at Gettysburg, November 19, 1863, comprising only 265 words, stirred the whole world by its sublime eloquence and its touching appeal to human hearts.

Large fortunes have their beginning in the saving of dimes.

The trusted bank clerk starts his ruinous career by little pilferings.

It is the little things that often take us to the heights, or to the valleys.

The commonplace mite in the end becomes the overpowering mammoth, and leads us gayly to good or evil.

Give serious thought to every word and act, to habits in the forming, to our deportment, our duty to one another, not forgetting duty to ourselves and those dependent on us.

To disentangle the different emotions that enmesh us, when we come face to face with the overwhelming deluge of little things, is indeed difficult, but if we go about our duty seriously and earnestly, we shall see our way clearly.

The road to success or failure will be well defined, and we shall know which direction we are taking.

Let us hope that we will not make a pitiful job of it. Let us make certain that the faults that almost overcame us in the beginning are no longer feared, and that we are now climbing the hills to a good and useful life, singing as we go.

SOME PICTURES

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I'D LIKE some pictures I could hang in our new house, but where to go. To find the artist I don't know. He'd have to understand the gang. That used to play around the creek—

I'd like a portrait made of Mick. The freckled boy who made us smile. But Mick has wandered many a mile. And all the kids I knew of yore. Who hung around the harness store.

I'd like a picture of a horse. A certain horse—no noble steed. And yet the finest horse, indeed. I ever saw—raw-boned, of course. But that's the horse I used to ride. Around the old-time countryside. I'd like to have a picture of That one-eyed peller that I love. For wife to hang above the fire. Beside the portrait of her sire.

I'd like a picture of our barn. Our old red barn, to deck the wall. And our old house—but best of all. Was that old barn where many a yarn. Was spun, where many a dance was held. And pop was there, and peanuts shelled.

I'd like a painting of the place. Our brand-new drawing room to grace. When 'round about the young folks prance. To bring me back a good, old dance.

I'd like some pictures, but the wife, I don't suppose she'd stand it, though. She says, "I wish you wouldn't, Joe. Keep telling folks of our old life. You know we've left that all behind."

And that's the saddest fact I find. I'd like some pictures, but I guess. The only ones I will possess. Are just the pictures memory's art. Has hung within my lonesome heart.

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

TOUCHING THE DEAD

IN MRS. BERGEN'S "Current Superstitions" appears the following communication: "I have noticed at funerals of the aged that when elderly people passed by the casket they would touch the forehead of the dead person. I was confident there was some superstition connected with the act because the same look was apparent on every face; but on being asked why this was done they pretended it was bidding an old comrade good-by. At last one told me that it was that they might not dream of the dead or see them."

It would be interesting to know how widespread this superstition is. It is probably more general than most people imagine. People who "hold by" such superstitions are apt to be extremely reticent about them when talking with "unbelievers," partly from a fear of ridicule and partly because of that feeling which causes certain savage people to "hold his fetish from the white man's gaze apart."

The superstition in question is patently a survival of that most ancient belief in the power of the touch. A good example of this is the custom of touching for the king's evil, alias scrofula, which was practiced by the English monarchs down to the time of Queen Anne. Homer tells us how, some four thousand years ago, Agamemnon "touched the chiefs and steered their manly souls." Look over the long list of definitions in the dictionary of the word "touch" and see how nearly all of them have in them the idea of the exertion of a mental or spiritual power by the toucher over the touched. It is an idea of primitive man who appears to have conceived a sort of magnetic spiritual fluid flowing from the finger that touched. When we touch the dead, as in the superstitious practice mentioned, we exert the power of the "touch" over their disembodied spirits to keep them away from us.

FRINGE EPIDEMIC NOW RAGING; SOME COLOR SCHEME REQUIRED

A FRINGE epidemic rages in the world of fashion. What is, more, all symptoms point to a spreading of the vogue during the coming months. The mode seems determined to be-fringe everything as it goes.

At formal functions the woman of smart style literally entwines herself in fringe as she enwraps her slenderized form in her lavishly fringe-trimmed shawl, such as is the joy, the pride, the envy of the normal feminine heart. The picture shows one way of wearing the beloved fringed shawl. No doubt, this pronounced vogue for fringe found its in-color, also black and white. For elaborate effect ostrich fringe, also fringes of beads are approved by the mode.

It is written in the bylaws of the mode that the costume must present, from head to foot, a perfect color scheme. Which means that footwear requires a no less fastidious styling than does headwear, and that the details of handbag and other accessories dare not be slighted in the ensemble.

spritation in shawls such as this, which by the way show no signs of waning popularity.

By no means, however is this passion for fringe confined to evening wear, for a review of styles in afternoon frocks reveals fringe as an idol of the daytime hour as well.

A strong argument in favor of fringe is the graceful silhouette which it never fails to achieve. Perhaps this accounts more than anything else for the sweeping indorsement which the mode is giving to fringe this spring.

The latest idea is to dangle fringe from the long tight-fitting sleeve, somewhat after the manner shown in the afternoon frock of black faille silk herewith illustrated. In some instances the fringe is much longer than that here pictured, falling at times from the elbow to exaggerated depth.

The black-and-white vogue lends charming expression in long fringe which alternates strands of each. Very striking is a black flat crepe frock styled with one deep row or tiers of black-and-white fringe.

At the simple neckline, pose, a white flower for the completion of the black-and-white composite.

Favorite fringed dresses stress a straight narrow model, whose lines are broken by two deep tiers of thick silk fringe, which in color is an accurate match to the fabric it trims. Often this fringe treatment is developed from a scalloped low waistline. Fringe placed diagonally in sections also produces an interesting effect. Most popular and most suited to practical wear is the silk fringe which is now being featured in every new color, also black and white. For elaborate effect ostrich fringe, also fringes of beads are approved by the mode.

"Why Do They Do It?"

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON
Drawing by Ray Walters.

WHEN you mail a letter in the post box on the corner, do you pull down the slot, drop in your letter, release the slot and then walk away? Or, after dropping the missive in, do you give the slot a series of vigorous bangs before you are satisfied that it is really mailed and that you can safely go away and leave it to the care of Uncle Sam?

Unless you're a most unusual person, you do the latter. Why the vigorous bangs? There's a psychological reason, so let a psychologist, Dr. Thaddeus L. Bolton of Temple University, answer. He says:

Everybody—or nearly everybody—rattles the mail box slot two or three times after putting a letter in. Why? Various reasons—first, caution; second, conceit; and third, egoistic hunger that finds satisfaction in making a noise. The cautiousness springs from the fact that at some time or another we have found the mail box full, and our tiny letter could only be wedged in by a series of flappings with the lid of the mail box. The element of conceit enters in the form of pride in our own written word. We want to make sure that nothing goes wrong to prevent our words reaching the recipient. A great deal of energy has probably gone into the letter. At any rate it is our own written word, so we snap the mail box opening several times "just to make sure."

The last and probably the greatest reason people rattle the mail box slot is because it makes a satisfying noise, and the noise is an expression of our capacity to do things. We make ourselves realizable. When we make a big noise we reassure ourselves that we are alive, and our egoistic hunger for the moment is satisfied.

And that is the scientific explanation for the mail box banging. Any one of the three reasons would be sufficient to cause many persons to rattle the slot, but all three together result in at least 90 per cent of us doing it. Stand near a mail box some day and make your own observations! Nor is it only the mail box which gives us an opportunity to satisfy our egoistic hunger. Doctor Bolton says further:

After all we never get very far from the "rattle stage" even in our so-called growing up state. We must confess that, sophisticated as we may be, we like to rattle things. This makes us kick in cars, run umbrellas along picket fences, and otherwise make ourselves conspicuous. We will walk along the sidewalk, carefully avoiding the cracks—or walking on one crack at a time. All these maneuvers are attempts to make ourselves felt. I once observed an iron post with an iron ring attached to the top—one of those old-time hitching posts. Of the 100 people I watched as they passed, more than 50 rattled the iron ring or tossed it from one side to the other.

So the proverbial small boy making a deafening racket by drawing a stick along a picket fence can't be explained by "child's love for noise." He is satisfying his egoistic hunger and reassuring himself that he is alive. So we're all small boys, to that extent, for we all do it.

Ever work a cross-word puzzle? Probably! Even if you have thus far escaped golf, radio, bridge, mah-jongg, or any of the other popular modern fads it's likely that you succumbed to the lure of the little black and white squares. Why did you do it? And why did the solving of puzzles, which has been practiced by man since the earliest days, wait until 1924 and 1925 to become a universal pastime?

Here is what Dr. H. E. Jones and Prescott Leck of Columbia University, in a recent article in Popular Science Monthly, have to say about it:

The second question possibly is the most easily answered. Cross-word puzzles never could have flourished in the past, for the reason that the level of general education, even a score of years ago, was much lower than at present, and solving the puzzles requires at least an elementary education.

Another reason for their success is that cross-word puzzles are almost the first fad of history the practice of which costs virtually nothing and requires the development of no special physical dexterity, the acquisition of no unusual equipment, the learning of no rules.

To the psychologist, however, readily occurs an even more potent reason for the amazing popularity of this newest fad. Successfully working out cross-word puzzles, more than any other similar amusement of recent history, satisfies a long list of the fundamental desires of human kind. Social distinction, sex, imitation, group loyalty, cooperation, competition, pleasure, play, amusement, humor, curiosity, activity and constructiveness—all of those ingrained, instinctive wants of man are satisfied merely by printing letters in the proper squares.

Cross-word puzzles are supposed by many to increase our power of concentration, to help our memory and our reasoning ability, and, by demanding decisive judgments, are even regarded as an aid to the will. It would require a whole course in psychology to present an adequate criticism of these views. Suffice it to say that we no longer believe in vague, general "facilities of the mind." You may strengthen your biceps by pulling chest weights and find the increased strength useful in playing baseball or hoisting potatoes, but the brain does not behave in the same way. Mental habits are usually quite specific, though cross-word puzzles may increase your vocabulary and play a useful role in keeping you out of mischief, neither they nor any other single discipline can be expected to have much effect in "improving the mind." The one reason for doing cross-word puzzles is for the fun of it. They are innocent amusement—nothing more nor less!

Although psychology can explain much of "why we behave like human beings," it can't explain all of our apparently unnecessary and meaningless doings. For superstition comes in to claim responsibility for making us do certain things or to refrain from doing them. For instance why do some people regard the number 13 as unlucky, refuse to sleep in Room 13 at a hotel, sit at a table with 12 other guests or have a part in any action in which that number is involved? Just where this superstition originated is unknown. In Biblical days the Hebrew word for 13 was associated with the word death and in Norse mythology the number is one of ill omen because of the tradition that the sun god Baldr had to die because there were 13 gods in Valhalla, an intolerable situation. The fear of 13 matly 250,000 tons of sea salt each year. A gallon of water contains approximately a quarter of a pound of salt, and since the average density of rock salt is 2.24 times that of water, the entire ocean, if dried up, would yield approximately four and a half cubic miles of salt.

Bad Habits

A teacher was trying to impress on her pupils the importance of doing right at all times, and to bring out the reply, "Bad habits," she inquired:

dinner guests may date from the Last Supper when Christ and his 12 disciples made 13 at the table. Christ was crucified on Friday and that makes Friday, the 13th, doubly unlucky.

Why do people fear to have a black cat cross their path? That is a superstition that goes back to the ancient days when the cat was worshiped in Egypt. In fact many of our superstitions go back thousands of years to the dawn of history. The swastika as an emblem of good luck enjoyed a great popularity within recent years, but this design is as old as mankind. It was a religious symbol in both the Orient and among the Mayas and Incas of Central and South America. Finding the horseshoe is lucky for three reasons (all of them based upon superstition, however). Anything in the shape of a crescent has always been regarded as something to bring luck; since early times iron has been a good luck metal and English mythology has always held the horse to be a lucky animal. So a combination of the three makes the horseshoe an emblem of good luck.

But not all superstitions are based upon blind, unreasoning belief. Some of them have a very common-sense foundation, even though we are more inclined to think of the superstition than of the common-sense foundation. If you started out the day by breaking a mirror while dressing and then spilling the salt at breakfast, you'd probably think that it was going to be an unlucky day for you, wouldn't you? And you'd probably be right, for those two acts might indicate that your nerves were a bit shaky, and if you weren't quite up to form mentally, you might easily make other blunders. Opening an umbrella in the house and walking under a ladder are unlucky, aren't they? Certainly, for if you open the umbrella you may knock some bric-a-brac off the table or pictures from the wall and if you walk under a ladder it might be just at the moment when the painter dropped his bucket or some other workman dropped a hammer. Either would be unlucky for you, all right. But the main thing about the umbrella and the ladder is that if you do these things you probably will be doing them absent-mindedly. And absent-mindedly you might walk directly in front of a street car or automobile or step into a deep hole.

Gamblers believe that the person who lends money to a fellow-player during the game will be unlucky and the borrower will be lucky. They're perfectly right for it's a matter of simple economics. The lender has decreased his available capital and the borrower is playing on borrowed money with consequent increase of his chances to make it produce more.

So some of the "why-do-they-do-it's" are easy enough to answer. They do it because, quite aside from the superstition connected with it, it's a perfectly logical and natural thing to do.

"What is it we find it so easy to get into and hard to get out of?" There was silence for a moment, then one little boy said: "Bed." Then she wrote a list of spelling words on the board, asking the pupils to put them into sentences to illustrate the meaning of the words. One word was "goblet," and a boy wrote this: "If I had a piece of cake I would goblet."

We all catch ourselves acting as if we were going to be here always.

THE OBELISK

That Saturday afternoon they took a walk with Uncle John through Central park.

They had not walked so very far when Dorothy suddenly said: "Oh, look at that tall, tall thing made out of stone!"

"It's called the Obelisk," said Uncle John, "and I must tell you about it."

"Years and years ago it was made out of a single stone—way back in the days of Moses. All over it are markings to the sun-god and to the kings and rulers of Egypt."

"The sun-god is made like a sparrow hawk and is carved at the top of each column."

"There are inscriptions upon the monument, as we can see. And it seems strange that so many years ago their stone-cutting was so perfect as to last through all these years. Modern stone-cutting instruments will make no mark on the Obelisk!"

"But how did it ever come here?" asked Douglas. "I should think the people of Egypt would have wanted such an old and quaint monument."

"When Rome was leader of the world," continued Uncle John, "as you will read about some time in your history, Augustus Caesar, the king, had the monument placed before the temple of the Caesars."

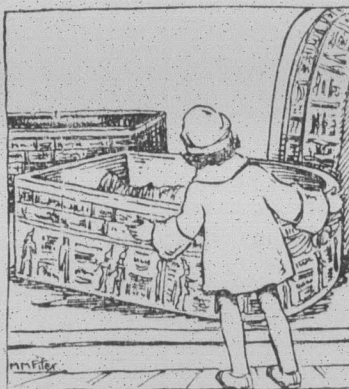

"It is also known as Cleopatra's Needle and Pharaoh's Needle."

"But," questioned Douglas, "how could it be made in such a way?"

"It was just carved out of the one stone brought from a quarry in Egypt and erected before the Temple of the Sun in Heliopolis, which means the City of the Sun, for the Egyptians were sun worshippers."

"I still don't see," said Douglas, "how they ever worked with it and carried it. To think that it is so hard that it cannot be marked upon now!"

"Well," said Uncle John, "you are not any more puzzled than hundreds and hundreds of other people have been. The work of these people centuries ago is wonderful to us in this day and age of wonders."

"I'm glad," Douglas commented, "that they had wonders, too, for wonders are so nice!"

"And I'm glad," added Dorothy, "that this one was brought to the city where we could see it, as I'm sure we could never have gone to see it in Egypt!"

As they made an early start they were planning another visit on that afternoon and this was to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

"You'll only be able to get a nodding acquaintance with it today," Uncle John told them, "as there is so, so much to see that one wants to spend a long time looking at, and there are new exhibitions, too, from time to time. But we will get a look at it today so you will know what you like best and what you want to visit first when you come next time."

So they went over to the museum and when they were inside Douglas and Dorothy both stood quite still.

"There seems to be so much to see here," Douglas began, "that I don't know how to start looking. I feel as if I would just stand on this spot and never move. I feel as though I wanted to see everything at once."

"Well, even in this wonder age," Uncle John said, "I am afraid that cannot be. And, too, we wouldn't want to see a museum that way. Some things you will love so, you will want to visit them again and again—like old friends."

"What shall we see first?" asked Dorothy.

"Oh, I think I want to see the Egyptian mummies first," said Douglas. "I've heard about them."

"What are they?" Dorothy asked.

"They are men and women who lived in Egypt hundreds and hundreds of years ago. They dressed them in wonderful costumes when they died, and many of them are still to be found in these queer clothes. Some of them were very important people in their day—thousands and thousands of days ago!"

"Aren't they queer?" asked Dorothy, as she looked at the mummies. "I've always wanted to see them more than anything else," said Douglas, "as I've heard more about them, somehow, somewhere."

"Mummies are interesting," remarked Uncle John, "because they are so old—because such ways are not the ways of today."

"It's strange," mused Dorothy, "to think that in this city of new and modern wonders we can see mummies hundreds of years old!"

Pt. Loma "Hi" News and Views

(Contributed to "The Beach News" by the Reporters' Club)

The girls at Point Loma high school started practicing this week for the May day festival to be held April 29, in connection with the big baseball game on that date.

Mrs. Ross' class in hygiene greatly enjoyed their recent visit to the science and man museum Saturday morning, where Miss Shepherd acted as guide.

Last week's fire drill came at the drowsy period—after lunch, but the building was emptied in the record time of 55 seconds, and that without use of the slides.

In the American democracy class of Miss L. Ethel Henderson's the students are going in pairs to visit certain places of interest in our civic government.

The Point Loma Hi-Y club has deviated from the usual routine of doing service for others and has planned a program of recreation as a group.

A meeting of the Girl reserves was held Monday night at the home of Margaret Canaga. After business discussions part of the evening was spent socially and part given over to the Girl reserves number for the h-jinks.

Oratorical Contest

Mr. Kirk Smith, editor of "The Beach News" of Ocean Beach, is offering a silver cup to the winner of the Constitution oratorical contest at Point Loma high school. Mr. Smith is one of Point Loma's well wishers, and always does his best to aid the school in any undertaking that he can. The history classes are working earnestly at their orations for this contest, and Point Loma's contenders will give San Diego high a real fight for city honors. Among those who now plan to enter are: Dorothy McNiff, Richard Lough, Willis Doetschmann, Dorothy Myer, Lillian Miller, Faye Baird and Jean Harrison.

Choosing a May Queen

Having completed their track season, the girls' physical education department is now turning its thoughts to May day. All the girls are expected to participate. The May queen will be chosen not by a vote on facial beauty, but by the sanction of several doctors on her correct posture. All those eligible will be awarded a pin, and the six highest (next the May queen) will be her ladies-in-waiting.

The 7B social science class of Point Loma high school is starting an extensive study of the Panama canal. The Tes Trams club of Point Loma high school had a very interesting and enthusiastic meeting last week-end. The program consisted of a dance by Edria Janicki, three numbers by the Girls' lee club, and a very interesting talk on Hawaii by Mr. Easton.

Miss Gale's third period art class is having some very interesting work this week, making linoleum cuts of their names.

The iGrils' Glee club of Point Loma high school had a glorious time Saturday at Hubbard Grove. Those who attended the picnic were: Misses Verna Schneider, Lovie Humason, Mary Lou Rose, Gwendolyn Carlton, Anna Lough, Virginia Lee, Agnes, Annabel Cooke, Florence Hayden, Pauline Douglas, Hilda Bargman, Ellen Lowe, Jean Harrison and Mrs.

Miller, the instructor. Guests were Mr. Edward Miller, Mr. Carlton and Buddie Carlton.

Mrs. Gillespies' fourth period English class is studying the 18th century literature. On Friday of last week each student gave the story of a contemporary writer. It was interesting to note how many well-known authors are living in or near San Diego.

The Saume Camp Fire girls of Point Loma took part in the grand council meeting held in Balboa park last Saturday. Our girls sang "The Boating Song," which was accompanied by a flute and violin, by Grace Winters and Virginia Chappia.

The eighth grade of Point Loma Junior-Senior high has been having field work for the past week. Their teacher, Miss Troxell, gave them the pythagorean theorem and by this the students measured the school yard, flag pole, etc.

The members of the advanced chemistry class, under Mr. Easton, are engaged in writing themes upon the relation of chemistry to industries.

PLAY BALL!

By Stanford Vose, 6-B Grade

Oh, boy! Gee, but those guys were easy!

That ball game was the easiest to win that I ever saw. Their pitcher didn't have a thing on the ball. Our pitcher could throw curves and fade-aways so good that he fanned them out easy. Some of them got little scratch hits that carried them to first base, but no farther. Our pitcher only walked three men throughout the game.

THE BALL GAME

By Kenneth C. Wilder, 6-B Grade

At the ball game last week each room had badges which were blue and yellow. The 6-B's were a yellow circle with a blue 6-B on it while the 5-A's were blue and yellow stripes. About every one in the school was watching the game. The final score was 21 to 7 in favor of the 6-B's.

The players of our room are: James Smith, captain, Jack Closby, Jack Humason, Charles Willans, George Potts, Stanford Vose, Reuben Belows, Helmut Mundkoswski, Alvin Overall and Frany Runyan.

ROLLER SKATING BECOMES GREAT FAD WITH COLLEGE STUDENTS

Edward A. Kickham, the well known proprietor of the Mission Beach Roller Rink, has received word from his favorite niece, Miss Verne Spitzer, that the roller skating fad at the college she is attending in Illinois is rapidly reaching unanimity in the number of enthusiasts. She states that the hat racks in the halls of learning are strung almost solidly with roller skates belonging to the students and faculty.

Printed evidence is also given in the following dispatch recently published in the East St. Louis Journal, from Urbana, Ill.: "The roller skating fad has hit University of Illinois so hard that all store stocks have been exhausted and telegraphic orders have been sent to Chicago and St. Louis for further supplies. A roller skating derby will be held during April open to all university students of both sexes."

EASTER NOVELTIES AND GREETING CARDS AT THE CACHE OF SWEETS

Cash Profit FOR SAN DIEGO

Seldom do Voters have a chance to VOTE CASH INTO THEIR OWN POCKETS. Tuesday will be one of those rare occasions.

On Tuesday's ballot Voters will have an opportunity to give the Harbor Commission power to rent some of the reclaimed tidelands south of Market street and the Ferry Landing.

The rent to be derived from this area will not only pay interest on the improvements already made BUT OVER 12 PER CENT NET PROFIT PER YEAR IN ADDITION. Ask any real estate owner if this is good interest on the investment.

In addition to this the lessees will have to pay large taxes to the City and also do their own improvement work such as building wharves and surface the land.

The City is absolutely protected in every way. . . the leases being revokable on 30 days' notice, should the City find more profitable use for the land at any time.

Shipping and the use of the actual water front by the public is provided for by a 125-foot drive along the harbor. The four leases recommended by the Harbor Commission are listed separately and Voters must vote "FOR" each one of them to assure this CASH PROFIT FOR THE CITY.

BALBOA THEATRE

Ronald Colman has a "flaming role!" The hero of "The Winning of Barbara Worth" and Beau Geste" is given his greatest opportunity in "The Night of Love," George Fitzmaurice's production for Samuel Goldwyn, which comes to the Balboa theatre for one week starting Friday.

The man who can "smile and smile, and be a villain still," Montague Love, has achieved perhaps the greatest characterization of his career in the role of the Spanish Grandee, Duke Bernardo de la Garda in "The Night of Love."

Natalie Kingston, former premier dancer of the New York Winter Garden, was loaned to Samuel Goldwyn for the role of Donna Beatriz in "The Night of Love." This role offers Miss Kingston an opportunity entirely different from anything she has done in the past, and is particularly suited to Miss Kingston's talents inasmuch as she is of direct Spanish descent, being the great granddaughter of General Vallejo, the first Governor of California.

On the stage, Fanchon and Marco offer their "Spring Idea," featuring Henry Fink, famous singer and composer, Edythe Evans, those Sunkist Beauties and others. Al Lyons and his greater Band, occupy a feature spot on the program with their snappy, up-to-date musical entertainment.

Pictorial News-Reel, a laughable comedy, the Balboa Weekly and other short reels combine to make a highly finished and truly metropolitan show, for Balboa this coming week.

CABRILLO THEATRE

"Love 'em and Leave 'em" with Evelyn Brent, Lawrence Gray and Louise Brooks, is the stellar attraction at Cabrillo this week. All the world loves a lover but when she loves 'em and leaves 'em one may well wonder whether she really is so popular. Take Janie Walsh as an example. Although not yet out of her teens, Janie goes through life taking and discarding new men. But, believe it or not, Janie has a method in her madness. Each candidate is a step higher on the social and financial ladder. For instance, we can imagine her at the age of fifteen. Her beau at that time might have been some callow prep school youth. Sixteen finds him a junior clerk; seventeen, a salesman; and so on.

Evelyn Brent, Lawrence Gray and Louise Brooks are cofeatured. "Love 'em and Leave 'em" was adapted by Townsend Martin from the successful John V. A. Weaver-George Abbot play.

Raymond Godden plays a popular music program. Kinograms and a comedy furnish additional entertainment.
